REFERENCES

1. Stephen Ignatius Hemenway, The novels of India vol.:2, The Indo-Anglian Novel, Calcutta:wtiter workshop, 1975
2. Kamala Markandaya :A critical spectrum Edited by M.K. Bhatnager (Atlantic publishers &distibuters)
3. Margret P. Joseph, Kamala Markandaya
4. Quoted by Margret P.Joseph in Kamala Markandaya ,op. cit.
5. Uma Parameswaran , A study of Representative Indo-English novelist
6. Stephen Ignatius Hemenway The novels of India vol. 2 : The Indo-Anglian novel
7. Uma Parmeswaran , A study of Representative Indo-English novelist
8 Therizing Feminism ParallelTrends in the Humanities and Social Siences (1994). Editted by Anne c. Herrman
9. Feminism (First south Asian) edition 2002
10. Bhatnagar, A.K.: Kamala Markandaya : A Thematic Study. NewDelhi:Sarup and Sons 1995.
11 Chatterjee, Arudhate: “Rukmani : the mother figure in Nectar in a Sieve" Studies in Indian Fiction in English. ed. G.S. Balaram Gupta Gulbarga : JIWE Publication: 1987.